This book is about people--
People who live and work
and study.
People who live
and fight and love
Together.

This book is about Millikin
Where the people live and work, and study,
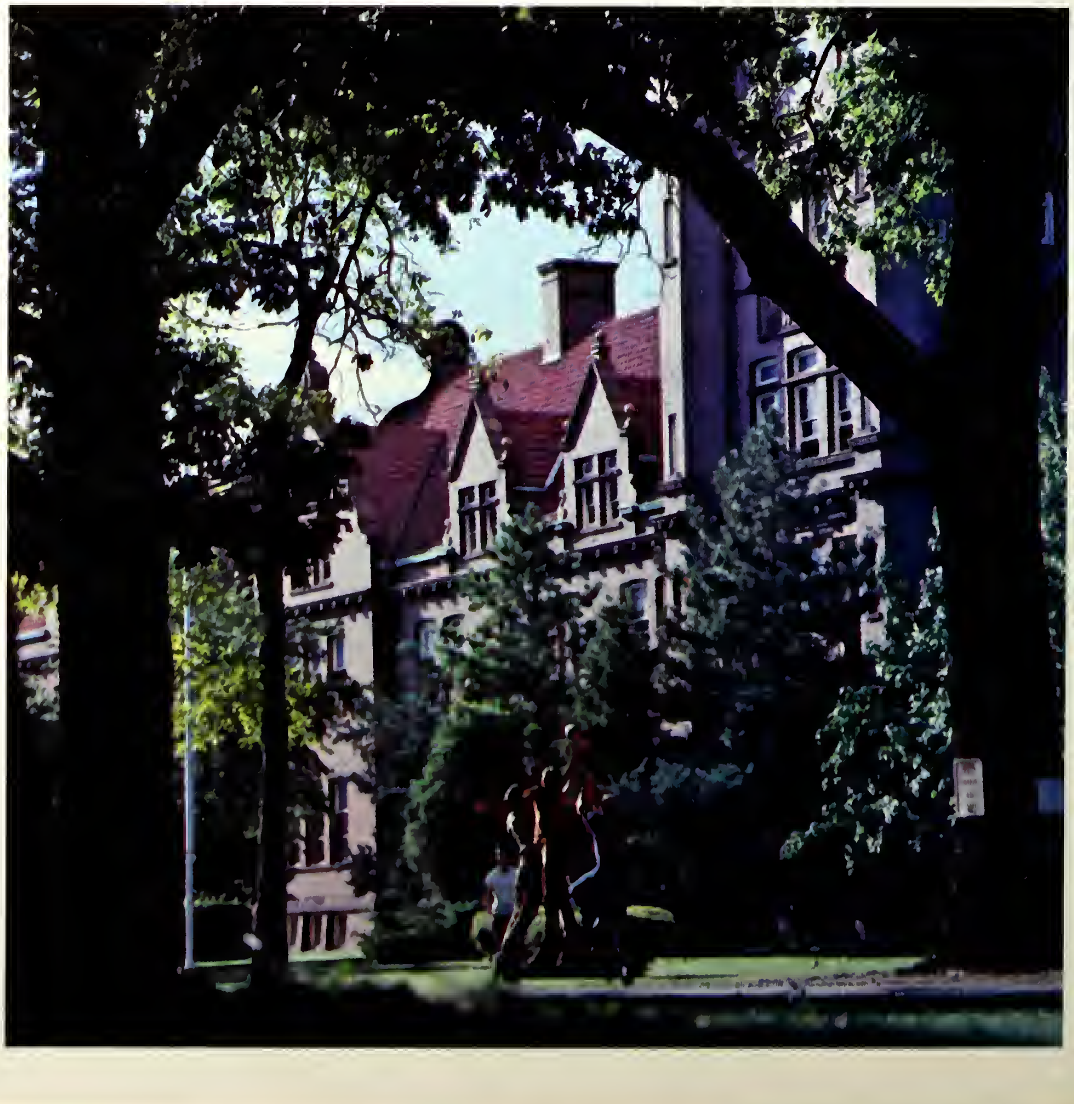
and fight and love.
This is Millikin--the school
--the People.
This is where I live
and for a while
this is a part of me.



My world is a mass of people
All hurrying in their own directions
Never seeming to notice . . .
I am a person
Surrounded by other people Often unable to find my identity
In the rushing, storming humanity.

I LOVE
NKIND..
IT PEOPLE CAN'T TAND!

Somewhere there is someone,
Someone special
That I will find
That will find me.
I wish it were here and now;
I hope you are that person.
Someone I can walk with and laugh with and never be lonely with
I think that is what I want
. . . Most of all
Someone to love.

Some days I walk alone to a quiet place
away from familiar faces and manufactured smiles.
To be by myself
And find a little peace.
There I can smile or cry
and I am free
I can find out about myself and why I am
and where I'm going,
I'm free and together
with myself.

Often when I am lonely and lost
I am surprised to find that there is someone who cares.
Someone I can share with a bit of myself
a part of my hopes a touch of my dreams.
Someone who will stop and talk and laugh and care . . .
with me.
And because I am myself
And he is himself
We are friends
And we can love
and share our sucesses and our failures.

I've been discouraged
by volumes of literature
by lists of theories
by dates and numbers and busy work.

I've fought hard to memorize names
to uncover meanings to learn just enough and made it.

And occasionally
I've found an answer
I've solved a puzzle
And then my mind was filled and I was curious and I learned.

When my days grow too long and my mind is tense and crammed
I escape
and let myself go
I relax
I dance . . . or sing
Or run through the park
And do silly things
I've never done before.
The world is happy
Full of bright lights and gay, silly people
And for a while
I'm refreshed
And tomorrow is on the verge of today.

I don't feel
Like a college student
Just a person.
I walk around the campus
And gaze at the buildings
and the people
But they aren't me.
I wonder what I'm doing here
What are you Millikin?
Dirty brown buildings?
A mass of students?
Where do I fit
in the picture?
I could leave this place
But never entirely
You'd never miss me, though
You've seen thousands leave.
And you never shed a tear.
Then, why am I so worried?
What are you Millikin?

Squeezed into the busy schedule of fall semester are the various money raising activities of Campus Chest. The purpose of the long weekend of festivities is to raise money to send Ecumenical Work Campers overseas for the summer. Various campus organizations and housing units compete to win the coveted titles of Beauty and Beast for their candidates. The housing units which raise the most money for the men and the women have their candidates crowned Beauty and Beast. In order to earn the money, there are bake sales, shoe shines, slave auctions and a carnival. Because of complications, the annual Talent Show was postponed until Spring. Despite a sudden epidemic of apathy in the student body, Campus Chest went over as well as it ever has.

Christmas

It's only how many more days? . . . How come none of the faculty have the Christmas spirit? . . . I have 12 tests and 3 papers due by vacation! . . . if we took the 3:00 bus downtown we could be back by . . . I think I joined that club, so can I go to the Christmas party even if it's the only meeting I've ever been to? . . . I know a tree on the floor and lights in the windows are a fire hazard, but it's Christmas! . . . Do you think we could sneak a tree by the desk? . . . well, I wasn't going to get her a present, but since she's getting me one . . .

Have you ever heard of Christmas angels before? . . . Great idea . . . How many trees does Mills get anyway? . . . I think I know who my angel is, I've caught her in my room! . . . who wants to sing Christmas carols in French, German, Spanish, Russian, Chinese, Pig Latin . . . let's go over that and let's all sing the same words . . . Hey, the guys are caroling our dorms . . . If I hear "fall on your knees" again, I'll . . . the choir concert was great as always . . . did you understand the meaning . . . tonight I'm going to six parties and eat twelve dozen cookies and then tomorrow . . . The Millikin Dames party is going on . . . you can have all the cookies you want! . . . It's only two more days until vacation! . . . I had no idea the days go so fast! . . . Yea! . . . It's Friday . . . See ya next year!!

I.D.C. Christmas Dance

"Frostasia" was the theme of the IDC 1969 Winter Formal. The decorations carried out a winter landscape scene. Actual pine trees crowned with angel hair accented a mural depicting a skating park. At the end of the dance, the trees were given to the lucky person whose name was drawn. The highlight of the dance was the crowning by Dr. McKay of the 1969 Snow Queen. Candidates were chosen from each dorm and voted upon by those attending the dance. Kris German representing Blackburn Hall was chosen as Snow Queen. After the crowning, the band struck up again, and everyone danced away the rest of a memorable evening.

SWEETHEART KING AND QUEEN: Mitch Mrugacz and Edie Price.

Sweetheart Dance

In spite of many complications, Student Senate presented the 1970 Sweetheart Dance. Planning for the dance was a comedy of errors. After orders for cookies and ingredients for punch had been delivered, the Decatur Club informed Senate that only Decatur Club cookies and punch could be served. Then, there was the last-minute paint job on the backdrop. The wrongs righted themselves in the end, leaving the dance committee shaken, but proud owners of unused paper cups, plates, and napkins.

The dance itself was placid after the scurry of preparing for it, despite the presence of a rock band. The evening's highlight was the crowning of the Sweetheart King and Queen.

Black Emphasis Week

For Soul Only, in an effort to achieve one of its goals (to aid in supplying the University with some aspects of Black culture) is presenting Black Emphasis Week. The purpose of this event is to afford black and white students of the campus an opportunity to become more aware of the need to become conscious of each other's existence. For Soul Only deems such a venture not only educational but also necessary to achieve a more unified coalition of the entire student body. Therefore, Black Emphasis Week will not only serve as a means of identification for the Black Student, but will try to act as a catalyst in a reaction on the entire campus, to change stagnated and antiquated opinions and attitudes.

Town and Gown

Town and Gown forms the nucleus from which all theatrical productions arise. The membership consists of interested people from the town and students of the University. In 1969-70 their productions were Julius Caesar and Hedda Gabler. The group adds one more element to the activities found on Millikin's campus.

Convocations

Convocations Committee was formed in order to replace Millikin's former assembly program with programs of worth. The tendency has been to define programs of worth as cultural events. Each student pays a certain amount of money each year to finance the voluntarily attended programs. Two of the most popular performances of the year were T.V. newscaster Dan Rather and The Paul Winter Consort. Although the Rather program packed A.T. Hall, several of the other programs were not as successful. Student complaints were answered by an attempt to improve the second season bookings.

The committee of fifteen students and five faculty members has the opportunity to express student opinion the most directly of any campus group. The organization has complete control of the spending of certain funds, arrived at solely through student payments. Having a majority of student members, the people who pay the money are given primary consideration in the spending. Hopefully, as students see the potential in this committee, they will participate more actively in work of the group, to help turn opinion into action.

University Center Board

The University Center Board is one of several groups designed to entertain Millikin students. U.C. Board sponsors such activities as all-school dances, movies and concerts.

The committee is charged with disposing of a certain amount of funds set aside for U.C. Board use. Entertainment, as well as the decoration of the Sub, provides uses for the money.

The main project of the group during the 1969-70 school year was a spring concert with The Association.

Fine Arts

From the rousing beat of jazz to the quiet strains of Saint-Saens to the blood-stirring Flamenco dance, the Millikin Fine Arts Series opens a world of musical enjoyment to people of many tastes.

These programs were brilliantly presented by the performances of Stecher and Horowitz, Betty Allen, Takako Nishizaki, Reyes/Soler, and the Preservation Hall Jazz Band.

Student Faculty Retreat

The main purpose of the Student Faculty Retreat is to break down barriers between student and teacher. Administrators, faculty, and students gather informally and discuss problems that confront them. Though not much in material gains results and few students participate, much tension is released. The Student Faculty Retreat is an opportunity to meet people away from their stereotyped environment.

Football

The Big Blue overcame two early non-conference losses to finish third in the tough College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin. Led by freshman speedster Bob Henry, the Blue fought their way to a 4-5 record. High-point of the season was a 17-7 victory over rival Illinois Wesleyan. Key injuries and the lack of experienced players in some positions hurt the overall effort. The team ended the rough season with two victories which offer hope for an improved season next year as most of this year's team will return. Their experience should make the Blue a strong conference contender.

Basketball

Under the direction of a new coach and with a slightly revised membership, the basketball team started out at a slow pace. After the team began to get itself together, the number of victories in conference play edged slightly over the losses. The team showed a new style and promised to get better. Attendance was down but picked up as the fans became interested in the coach and the job he was doing. The play between spectators and players was almost as keen and driving as the play on the court.

Hopefully with the opening of the Griswold Physical Education Center, more spirit and enthusiasm will be generated by the team and the spectators.

M-Man

This, the highest honor an athlete can win, is awarded to a senior who has shown the best combination of sportsmanship and talent in athletics. He is chosen by the faculty of the athletic department. This year Rich Dulaney, a basketball player, was selected. Because of his diligence and coordination on the court, Rich was awarded with the honor of M-Man. The award culminates four years of dedication to the Millikin University track and basketball teams.

Alpha Epsilon Delta

It takes a person of great dedication and talent to enter into the medical profession. One way of acknowledging such people at Millikin is through the AED honorary society which focuses on the achievements and potentials of the pre-med, pre-dent, pre-vet, and med. tech. students.

The AED members become more involved in their chosen field through the many activities planned by the group. During the first semester several doctors and medical technicians speak before the group. AED members annually visit the mental hospital in Jacksonville. During the second semester members travel to Chicago, where they visit numerous medical schools, hospitals, and pharmaceutical companies.

Those men elected to AED form a fellowship representative of their future profession.

Alpha Kappa Psi

The chief goal of Alpha Kappa Psi professional business fraternity is to supplement the business student's classroom experience by exposing him to the people and organizations which make up the actual business world. Zeta Sigma Chapter at Millikin strives to accomplish this goal by presenting speakers from the broad field of business at the monthly professional meetings. Field trips to such places as accounting and advertising firms, securities exchanges, banks, and general industry help acquaint the student with real business methods and practices. The Chapter seeks to link the ideals of the academic world with the realities of the business world so that the business student will be a well-rounded individual upon his graduation from Millikin. In this manner he will be better equipped to advance his community, his company, and himself.

Circle K's meetings were conducted in a different atmosphere this year. For the first time women were allowed to become honorary members in this organization.

Besides this change, Circle K added a new challenge to its list of service projects. Its members worked at the Adolf Meyer Zone Center in recreational activities with the emotionally handicapped. Their regular activities include the Pumpkin Karving Kontest during Homecoming and the Christmas Card Drive for servicemen overseas. Circle K owns and fires the cannon at all football games.

Collage

As the only campus literary publication Collage is perhaps the sole outlet for creative expression open to all Millikin students and faculty. Collage is published both as a supplement to the school newspaper several times a year, and as a bound booklet in the spring. Art work, photography, essays, poetry and short stories are selected for publication by an editorial staff. The students who submit creative work to Collage are similar to those university students described by Kenneth Koch in "Fresh Air":

"Where are young poets in America, they are trembling in publishing houses and universities,
Above all they are trembling in universities, they are bathing the library steps with their spit."

Conant Society

The Conant Society had for its biggest project the bringing of poet, Robert Creeley, to Millikin. Mr. Creeley came on Saturday evening, December 13, and gave a reading of his works for the few who attended. On Saturday afternoon Mr. Creeley was available in the Alumni Lounge for discussions and questions anyone might have.

At the beginning of second semester, Conant Society was disbanded, taking with it plans for more programs for the seemingly uninterested student body.

Mr. Frazer, F. Fraser, D. Morthland.

Debate Team

Starting from scratch in the fall, Millikin's debate team has developed into one of the most active, although anonymous, groups on campus. Under the direction of Miss Sandra Myers, Director of Forensics, each student began to fulfill the goals set in September. The philosophy of the Millikin forensics program is to further the education of its participants by developing the abilities to analyze critically, to organize logically, and to communicate effectively.

Practice sessions included talk sessions and mock debates made possible by hours of research on this year's topic, "Resolved: That the federal government should grant annually a specific percentage of its income tax revenue to the state governments." These sessions enabled the team to successfully compete in tournaments in various areas of the country. This year the Millikin team traveled to Indiana, Wisconsin, West Virginia, Connecticut, Missouri, and Nebraska as well as other campuses in Illinois. In addition to spreading the fame of Millikin, the team brought back certificates and trophies rewarding its performance.

Decaturian

The Decaturian could be characterized in two words: information and opinion. The Decaturian should be a means of communication on the Millikin campus, providing news of campus events and people as well as news on the local and national levels. Through features like the Senate Report and Soul Spot, the Dec sought to boost the ever-sagging communication on the campus.

And the Dec analyzed the news and the quality of life at Millikin University. Occasionally, harsh, usually optimistic, the Dec worked always for improvement in the world around it. A few interested student's voices were heard in the Dec through letters to the editor and special feature articles.

Providing information and reflecting and creating opinion--these are the challenges to the Decaturian.

Engineers Club

As with most of the special interest groups, the Millikin chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers provides its members with information in their special field through guest lecturers. In this case, the speakers came from various industries in the Decatur area. In addition, each month the group tours an industry. The club was newly organized this year to promote better understanding of industrial engineering.

For Soul Only

One of the most active organizations on campus is For Soul Only. It sponsors Black Emphasis Week, a tutor program and other activities. Involving itself in certain campus issues, the FSO voice is widely heard. One of the group's purposes is to establish a base for sounding the opinion of blacks at Millikin.

Some of the residents of Millikin's dorms are trying to create a spirit of cooperation for activities and programs that encourage both academic and social goals. They are attempting this through the Inter-Dorm Council.

Some of the cafeteria improvements--sandwich line, skim milk, chocolate milk, action on bad food during second semester--had IDC's concern behind them. The Winter formal, Turn-about-Turkey Dance, Tension Releasers, the dance dedicated to the new radio station were IDC initiated. The quietness of a new council in September was stressed when by April the members were expressive and things began to change for the better. Work, worry, disappointments, and triumphs describe IDC's year of action.

Independent Student Association

The Independent Student Association tried to revamp its program during the year 1969-70. Instead of being a purely social group, they intended to provide motivation for other independent students to involve themselves in campus activities. The executive committee of I.S.A. is the nucleus of interest that encourages capable students to work for various campus positions. Ideally the concept behind I.S.A. is for unaffiliated students to work for the whole Millikin community.

More work than fun is involved in producing a yearbook. Communication and cooperation must be present between staff, students, and publisher to achieve the goal Millidek shares with all yearbook staffs--to record student life in a meaningful and memorable yearbook.

(N.S.C.)

New Student Coalition

The newest organization on campus has provided Millikin students the opportunity to join an action group with an idealistic orientation. It is named the New Student Coalition. The members are striving to get the campus together. They hope to achieve this end by sponsoring listening, doing and working activities. The ideal is unity among students. The challenge is Millikin University and the students.

Psychology Club

Psychology Club is open to any Millikin student interested in psychology. This year the group has had informal parties as well as a speech on library skills.

A sub-group of the club, the Journal Club, studies psychology journals in depth.

Religious Organizations

What is religion?

"Is not religion all deeds and all reflection,

And that which is neither deed nor reflection, but a wonder and a surprise ever springing in the soul, even while the hands hew the stone or tend the loom?

Who can separate his faith from his actions, or his belief from his occupations?

Who can spread his hours before him, saying, 'This for God and this for myself; this for my soul, and this other for my body?'"

Around this philosophy many concerned students have formed their organizations--meeting to discuss and relate their daily lives to their faith and beliefs. Whether the student has found his peace in Alpha Omega, where through Bible studies in the dorms, small and large group meetings with guest speakers, and open prayer, the influence of Christianity is spread on campus; or in Newman Club, where the Catholic students join together in mass; whether in the Christian Science Organization, where through readings from the Bible, testimonies, and discussion, each member sees his religion as a way of life; or in Bah'ai Club, where members of this faith apply their beliefs to service projects, and hold public, fireside, and individual meetings, thus promoting the Bah'ai faith and acquainting others with it--no matter which organization, these students have found that religion is a way of life.

Sigma Zeta

Millikin is the home of Pi Chapter of Sigma Zeta, a national honorary science and mathematics organization, which recognizes outstanding students in those fields. Membership is determined not only by academic excellence in science and math, but by overall grade averages over four semesters. During the school year, the group furthers interest in the sciences through field trips, guest speakers, and national conventions. Dr. James Drenan, advisor of Pi chapter, is the editor of the national magazine, the Sigma Zetan.

Spanish Club

As with many of the special interest organizations, the work of Spanish Club remains abstruse. Among their activities is a Spanish Christmas and caroling party. Members of the group congregate in the cafeteria to practice speaking the language in an informal situation. Occasional guest speakers and films provide some break in the regular routine of meetings. Spanish Club brings together students interested in broadening their perspectives to the understanding of another culture through the study of its language.

Student Admissions Corps

Why did you decide to come to Millikin? For most, this is one of those agggh! questions--a question you couldn't begin to pin-point the answer to--frequently put to freshmen, especially in the form of their first English essay. So they just dribble on about the beautiful campus, small enrollment, nice atmosphere, and so on. But maybe they could include in their reasons the influence of one upperclassman--one person who gave them a different view of Millikin from the dull, hard facts of an admissions office: a student view, a personal view, one that made them really like Millikin and its students. Or they could include another reason: when they were at Campus Prologue under the loving wing of the Student Admissions Corps, they had a great time seeing Millikin in the bare skin of everyday life. Maybe one of the members of the Student Admissions Corps didn't make the decision final for you, but they were helpful and nice to a new face on campus.

The jobs of the editors of the Student Handbook and the Student Directory consist of organization. They are organizing the names and telephone numbers of Millikin students and faculty into alphabetical order and organizing the rules of the University into a unified whole. Although there is little room for creativity, the editor has an opportunity to display his leadership abilities and organizational qualities by producing the booklets on schedule.

After much heated argument and debate, Student Senate is now operating with a new constitution. Through the years Senate has not been considered "the students' voice"; but, lately as more people have become disillusioned by old methods Student Senate has been leaning towards greater relevancy. By electing students to the various committees, the Senate is trying to be a powerful force on campus. Serving as a forum for discussion, the governing body has been considering many ideas. For example, proposals for a radio station and a student book exchange have been considered, and some action has been attempted. Various student ideas are presented and sometimes the Senate becomes the spokesman for the students. Though at certain times the Senate is hesitant to take a position on particular issues, Student Senate's concern ranges throughout university life. At times the Senate takes a subordinate place in relationship to other University activities, but through capable leadership within, the Senate government is always striving for a prominent position in the University.

Student Education Association could be one of the most beneficial organizations on campus. The professional organization attempts to provide its members with information and experiences in the teaching profession. The officers have provided many learning opportunities for the members including films and guest lecturers, which were often well publicized. However, as attendance dropped off, the activities decreased. The Student Education Association attempts to provide its members with a standard within which students may work toward the highest degree of professional preparation which will produce a body of highly competent educators.

Composed of members from various disciplines, the choir is a body of selected musical ability. The result is an optimum blend of voices consummated by its great musical drive and emotive force. Chorus

Working . . . striving . . . getting together--some of the elements the students share in chorus. Repetition . . . concentration . . . some laughs--all go into preparation of the annual Winter and Spring concerts. Anticipation . . . nerves . . . relief--and the last performance has ended. The all-school University Chorus has ended another successful year and readies for the new.

Marching Band

The Millikin Concert Band and Wind Ensemble provides the student who has musical ability with an outlet for his talents. Primarily composed of music majors all students with an instrumental background are urged to join. The uniqueness of the musical experience is what sets an organization like the Concert Band apart from the others. Each member knows that the work done is realized in the performance.

Jazz Lab Band

Definitely the most traveled and best received group of any kind is the Millikin Jazz Lab Band. Consisting of the best talent in the Music Conservatory the Jazz Band provides the campus with a diverse and exciting repertoire. Much sacrifice and work goes into practice but the consensus of all audiences provides the incentive and motivation to keep rolling. The dedication of the band's members is only equalled by the sound that is molded together during performances.

Orchestra

Since every music student is encouraged to belong to some performing group, the activities of these groups are kept at a minimum. Orchestra presents two concerts a year--one in the fall and one in the spring. Since much concentrated work is required to prepare a concert, the orchestra stays in the background most of the year. The group has practice sessions three times a week. The orchestra is made up of townspeople as well as students.

Sigma Alpha Iota

As an international music fraternity for women, Sigma Alpha Iota strives to further an awareness of music within the university and the community. To accomplish this aim, SAI has held receptions for such performers as Betty Allen, a vocalist who appeared in the Fine Arts Series. Groups of the members perform and hold discussions at the Anna B. Millikin Home in Decatur. Throughout the nation, Sigma Alpha Iota chapters sponsored a South American pianist's tour of the United States.

Members of Sigma Alpha Iota are chosen on the basis of scholarship and musical ability. Together with Phi Mu Alpha, the group sponsors an annual musical event. Each member strives through her own personal musical interest to further the goals of the group.

Phi Mu Alpha

Phi Mu Alpha is a professional music fraternity striving to foster the mutual welfare and brotherhood of music students, to encourage loyalty to the alma mater and to develop the truest fraternal spirit within a group of music students.

To achieve their goals, the members work together to present various concerts, serenades and service projects for the school and community. From painting the men's restrooms in the music building to presenting the annual welcome-back-to-school serenade to holding receptions for well known artists, the fraternity provides a service to the school and community.

Members are chosen second semester of each year. After serving a pledgeship in which they learn the traditions of the Greek organization and further their musical interest, the men are activated to full membership. Each person, through his participation in intrafraternity activities, as well as campus musical events, brings music to the foreground at Millikin.

In order to coordinate the activities of the Greek organizations on campus, four governing bodies were formed. Sororities, as well as fraternities, are represented in two groups, one for active members and one for pledges. Panhellenic Council and Junior Panhellenic Council represent the women, while Interfraternity Council and Junior Interfraternity Council are the men's organizations. The combined efforts of Panhellenic Council and Interfraternity Council create Greek Week in the springtime.

Panhellenic Council, made up of three members from each sorority, has found its major work in re-evaluating rush. Working with the Greek Leadership Organization, Panhellenic is attempting to improve Greek relations on campus. This year the Panhellenic Council attended the Midwest Panhellenic Conference at the University of Illinois, attempting to better the workings of the organization on campus.

Junior Panhellenic Council represents the pledges of each of the four sororities. The purpose of the organization is to train the younger members in the workings of the governing bodies as they are led by the Vice President of Panhellenic Council. The main project of Junior Panhellenic is an all-school dance held during second semester. Throughout the year, the groupraises money to sponsor the dance.

One of the less active organizations is Interfraternity Council. The group is manned by members from each fraternity and has meetings every week. The main work of the group is in organizing rush, Fraternity Intramurals and developing Greek Week along with Panhellenic Council. A lack of interest on the part of some of the member groups has hindered the workings of I.F.C.

Junior Interfraternity Council was reorganized this year in order to build interest in the workings of fraternity government. The group has been relatively inactive this year, however, some money-making projects have been arranged as the fraternity pledges combine to accomplish their goals.

Alpha Chi Omega

Grounded in the Greek tradition of the past, sororities and fraternities have brought to the present, the goals and ideals of the ancients. The Greek idea of perfection in man was harmony. Alpha Chi Omega seeks to develop this balance of mind, body, and soul in each of its members. Opportunities for each individual to strengthen her weak points and use her assets appropriately are offered, as each person is encouraged to make herself a well-rounded individual. Experiences in group living are brought about in the everyday interrelations within the house.

Training in leadership is offered through house activities as well as on campus. The Alpha Chi Street Dance, to earn toys for orphaned children, and the annual Easter Seal Drive are the altruistic projects through which each individual is given the opportunity of helping others. Three major dances throughout the year allow for relaxation as well as teaching the social graces. Each person can find her interests within one of these areas. Alpha Chi stresses the individual yet all strive for harmony in working and living together.

Delta Delta Delta

Striving for perfection, the motive of the ancient Greeks, is the motive of present-day Greek fraternities. Delta Delta Delta realizes, as did the ancients that no system is ready-made perfection. The Tri Delts' goal for the year is to re-evaluate their system, making changes where needed to achieve the harmonious goal of perfection. In shifting, changing, striving for the perfect, the women constantly keep in tune with their unchanging ideal: "Let us steadfastly love one another."

To bring their ideal of love to everyone, Delta Delta Delta will participate in many altruistic projects throughout the year. By working for the Heart Fund and Easter Seal Drive and being "pals" to children in Webster Hall the members help those who need it as well as strengthening the bond of love between themselves. Learning to work together within this spirit of love, Tri Delta presents leadership opportunities to each of its members. Social activities, such as the Pine Tea for faculty members, the Pansy Tea for senior women, and three major dances during the year, give the members ample chance to work together as well as stress the social graces.

Pi Beta Phi

Perfection can take on many different characteristics; it can be reached from many different angles. To the members of Pi Beta Phi sorority, the Greek ideal is carried out through loyalty to the sorority as well as to the school. Loyalty and love seem to go hand in hand.

The women of Pi Beta Phi are given ample chance to develop both their love and their loyalty through the activities of the group. A pride in their past history, working on altruistic projects and campus activities helps bring the chapter together and strengthens loyalty between the women. The women of Pi Beta Phi are encouraged to participate in all activities including community, university and house activities. Pi Beta Phi seeks the Greek goal of perfection.

Zeta Tau Alpha

To the democracy developing Greeks, the worth of the individual was highly important. In striving for perfection, Zeta Tau Alpha seeks to aid each member in becoming a well-rounded mature individual. Zeta helps direct the individuality in appropriate channels by stressing "service to each other and the community," "promoting happiness among the members," and "providing the experience of living with others and for a common goal."

To achieve these goals, Zeta Tau Alpha engages in altruistic projects, such as a Christmas party at Lincoln State Hospital, the adoption of an American Indian child, the Easter Seal Drive, and the Heart Fund Drive, as well as promoting social activity through a hootenanny, a faculty buffet, an ice cream social and various dances throughout the year. Scholarship is stressed highly as Zeta has won the Panhellenic Scholarship trophy for three semesters. Zeta Tau Alpha seeks to attain the Greek goal of perfection as they follow their open motto, "Seek the Noblest."

Administration and Faculty

President Paul L. McKay

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Millikin University has undergone great changes and has seen much progress in the last ten years. The prime force behind Millikin's evolution is President Paul L. McKay's policy. President McKay's concern and understanding of the University has helped the campus grow not only in size, but in cultural and academic outlook.

Throughout each year President McKay accepts many speaking engagements in and out of Decatur. Some of his more important programs are with the parents of Millikin students. It is this interest he shows that enables him to gain insight into the problems of our campus. Not only does he take time speaking with parents, alums and other organizations, he also encourages the individual Millikin student to discuss problems with him.

In the world of today communications has become the source of peace or confusion, turmoil or tranquility. We are fortunate to have the freedom to communicate at Millikin University. Millikin students owe this freedom to the chief proponent of dialogue on campus, Paul L. McKay.

On many campuses the fight to have students on governing committees still rages. Millikin has, without demonstrations and riots, advanced educational opportunities by placing students on many of the decision making groups. Student-Faculty Boards and Committees are an integral part of Millikin life.

The administrative committee which deals with the total educational problems and policy of the University is the Executive Committee. Containing two actively voting student members, this committee reviews the total educational policy and the means by which it may be made effective. Recently the Executive Committee has been studying the Winter Term Proposal, pass-fail system plus several other curriculum changes.

The Human Relations Committee undertakes studies on long-range planning in areas related to equal rights on Millikin's campus. They also make recommendations for specific action through the Committee on Student Affairs. Made up of six voting student members, the Student Senate leader, and five voting faculty members, this committee works hard to bring about good relations on campus.

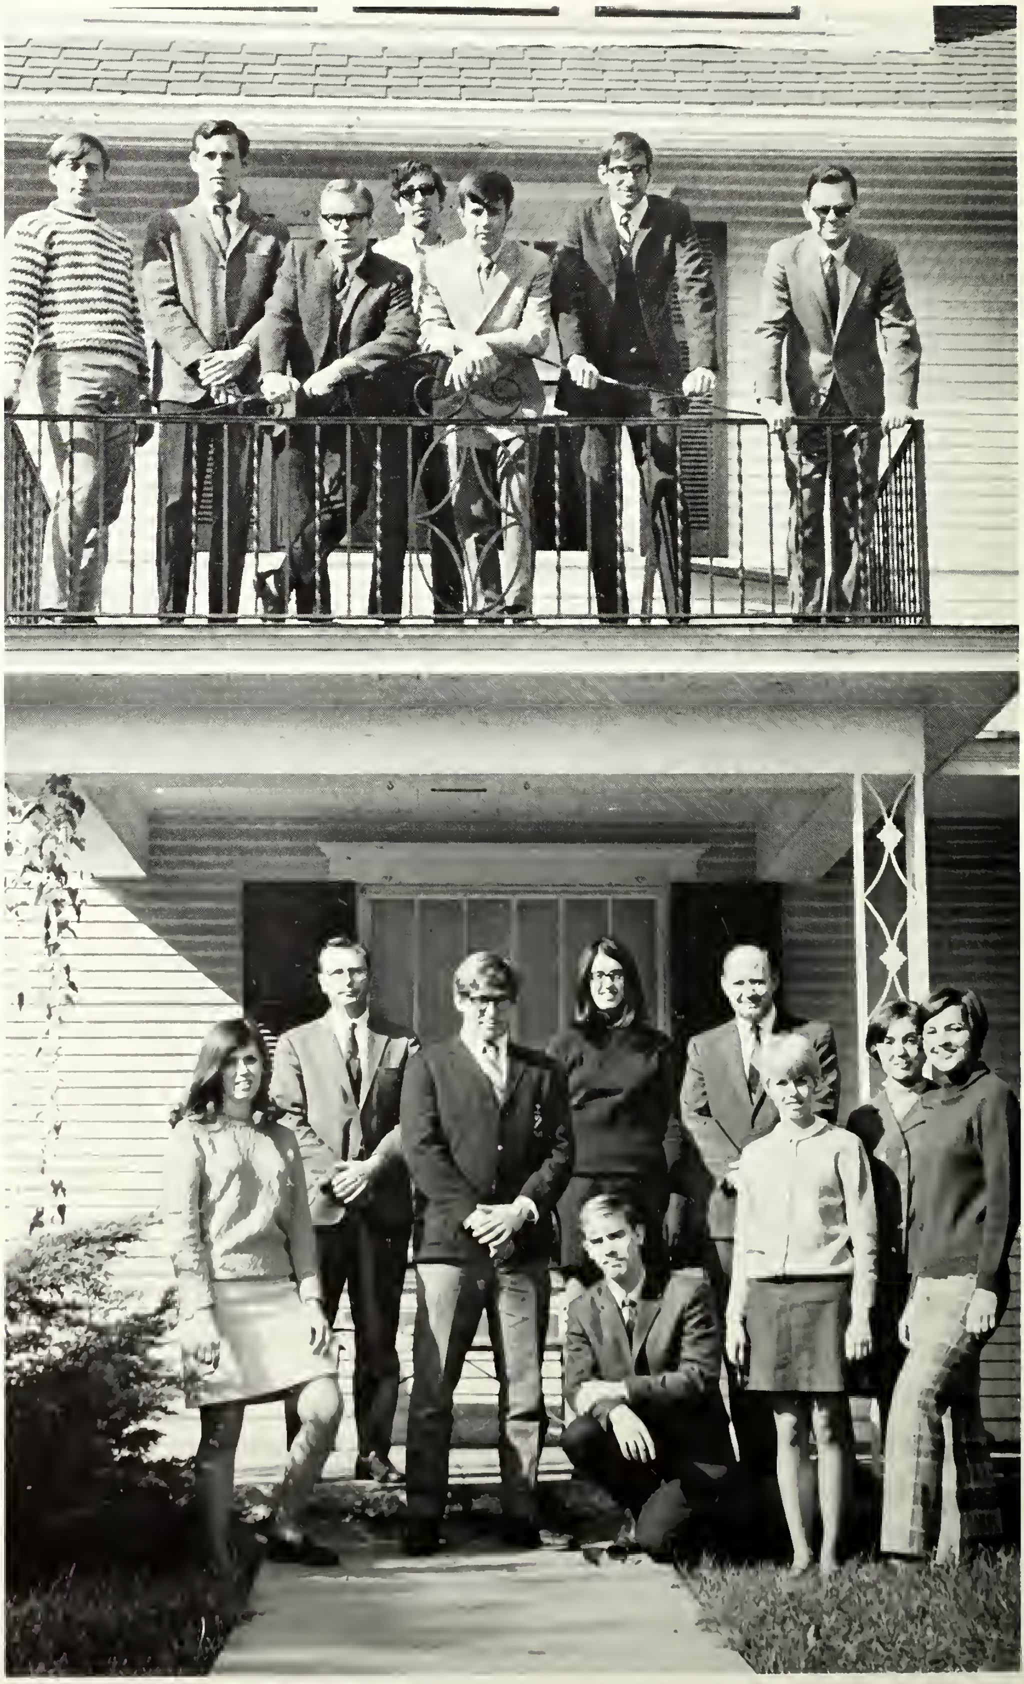
The Admissions Committee is concerned with the admission and readmission policies established by the faculty for undergraduate students. Containing three voting student members, the committee evaluates the credentials of marginal candidates and petitions for readmittance.

University Committees

Made up of the editors of the major school publications, the Publications Board meets to discuss matters relevant to such periodicals as the yearbook and newspaper. Recently added to the Publications Board is the literary magazine, THE COLLAGE. The board selects the editors and business managers of these various journals.

The University Judicial Board unites students and faculty in the disciplinary action of the school. The four regular student members and five alternates serve to hear major disciplinary cases and subsequently to recommend action to the Dean's Office. The work of this committee is probably the best known of any student-faculty group.

The Committee that studies and reports on matters concerning the Library is the Library Committee. Containing three voting student members, the board recommends the annual budget and its allocations. This committee has not been too active lately because the library staff has been able to handle the problems which do arise.



PUBLICATIONS BOARD, ROW 1: P. Gamble, G. Redford, D. Ahrens, E. Wittlinger, T. Clauser, R. Spires, D. Lange, N. Harry, B. Cerutti; ROW 2: J. Lauerman, C. Bono, T. Comerota, T. Hasbrouck, B. Shipton, B. Zieche, Dean Marquardt.

University Committees

TEACHER EDUCATION COUNCIL, ROW 1: Dr. Ferris, Dr. Mardock, Dr. Lewis, J. Sayers; ROW 2: Dr. Shell, Dr. Wiggs, Dean Miller, H. Vass, Mr. Smith, Dean Marquardt.

STUDENT AID COMMITTEE: Dean Olson, Mr. Williams, Dean Gregory, K. Drach, Dean Marquardt, Dr. Ferry, Dean Miller, Mr. Mathieson, Miss Webb, Dean Houston.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE, ROW 1: Dean Olson, T. Comerota, C. Parson; ROW 2: Dean Miller, Dean Gregory, Dean Morris, D. Slagel; ROW 3: Mr. Mathieson, Dr. Bodamer, T. Fusco, B. Douglas; ROW 4: G. Lawson, Mr. Mabry; ROW 5: M. Slagel, Dean Marquardt.

One of the special interest committees is the Teacher Education Council. Containing two voting student members from the education department, this committee plans and reviews a teacher education curriculum keeping in mind the University policies and requirements.

Another of the less active of the committees on campus is the Committee on Student Aid. Containing three student members, the job of this committee is to develop and administer policies concerning student aid. The major portion of the work is in determining and allocating the budget for student aid.

Perhaps the most active of the committees is the Student Affairs Committee. It is the job of this group to formulate policies concerning all phases of student life from student government to athletics. Containing two voting student members, the committee has recently been concerned with such problems as campus demonstrations and the policy on off-campus activities.

Honors

Who's Who

The possessor of extraordinary amounts of character, citizenship, leadership, and scholarship is most likely to be found in the pages of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. The prestige and respectability of one's abilities and accomplishments is meaningful not only to the student, but to the school as well. Who's Who provides a valid and illuminating focus on achievement. Any student or faculty member may nominate upperclassmen to be honored in the book. Achievements and grade points are compiled, as twenty-three students are elected by Student Senate and the faculty. These are the truly successful members of the college community.

Phi Kappa Phi

The ultimate level of recognition for a student's academic abilities is Phi Kappa Phi. The national fraternity is represented by students and faculty from all disciplines, comprising no more than ten percent of the graduating class, elected into the fraternity twice a year. The students work to live up to their motto, "The love of learning rules the world".

Pi Mu Theta

During one of the early weeks of the first semester, several women around campus were seen wearing black scholar's gowns. These were women of Pi Mu Theta, the senior women's honorary fraternity. The twenty members are chosen on excellence of scholarship, service, and leadership and upon recommendation of the faculty. Each year the new members are selected by the active members of the organization. Initiation is held in the late spring and early fall.

Currently Pi Mu Theta is investigating the possibility of nationalizing with the national honorary, Mortar Board. The organization provides service to the campus by checking coats at several Fine Arts and Convocations programs. It annually awards two scholarships to Millikin students, sponsors book sales and sells mums for Homecoming. Pi Mu Theta hopes to end the year with a dinner for active members.

Pi Delta Upsilon

Struggling freshmen women are lauded for their first efforts by the honorary sorority, Pi Delta Upsilon. Members are selected twice a year on the basis of scholastic achievement. The freshmen women are members through their sophomore year. The group is investigating the possibility of membership in a national honorary.

Ecumenical Work Campers

People from around the world met in Ecumenical Work Camps in Asia, the Middle East, Africa, Europe, and North and South America last summer. The program is supposed to develop a feeling of wholeness in the Universal Christian Church. The Youth Service is an organ of the World Council of Churches. The Council selects volunteers to work service projects in various areas around the globe. Recently, volunteers from Millikin have been sent to such places as Switzerland, Italy, and Africa. The concept of the Ecumenical Youth Service can be described as building together. The purpose of the work camps is to break down the barriers of race, class, culture, and economic states. To attain this goal volunteers leave the problems of their own community and try to help bridge the humanity gap in foreign places. The students selected generally spend three to four weeks on their project. After getting a chance to test their faith in a common life of service to others, the volunteers return home with many memories and plenty of interesting stories to relate to the people at home.

We feel the most meaningful way to conclude Millikin 1970 is with these words from its introduction:

I don't feel
Like a college student
Just a person.
I walk around the campus
And gaze at the buildings
and the people
But they aren't me.
I wonder what I'm doing here
What are you Millikin?
Dirty brown buildings?
A mass of students?
Where do I fit
in the picture?
I could leave this place
But never entirely
You'd never miss me, though
You've seen thousands leave.
And you never shed a tear.
Then, why am I so worried?
What are you Millikin?
